

Get a website:

This is the first step to getting stated online. Having a website serves as a central point of contact for potential clients. Additionally having your own website gives you full control over content and the future growth.

1.

Determine your time schedule, allocate time for this. One of the best things to do is work out how much time you can put into this and leave time weekly to work on this.

2.

Brainstorm an idea for what you want to do online. Pick a niche or area and area of focus.

3. Pick a domain name, using keywords and domain suggestion tools like domain.com

4. Find a host provider for your domain and get a spot on the internet to call your own.

5. Establish your social media presence.

6.

Join the conversation get involved with the community.

Find forums and discussion areas of where your target audience is.

Find ways to engage with them, get social come up with a regular timeline of posting content. New content and grow your networks.