Becoming a web developer Checklist

- Schedule your Time in Advance - Make a time table schedule of time you have for web development. Try to set aside time, minimum of 2-4 hours a week. Track your progress set goals and organize your time. If you set aside time in advance you are more likely to perform the tasks. Stay organized and schedule plan ahead for best results.
- First Step - Brainstorm web ideas, create a list of words and phrases. Find a web host and register your domain. You need to have a central place to create code and drive traffic too.
- Always Learning - Learn HTML and practice what you learned. Try to code yourself and see what it does. Change variables and try different challenges.
- Always Learning - Learn CSS and practice what you learned. You should get familiar with how to style any website. Start with a framework and create your own version of popular websites. Practice and update your own website and style it in different ways.
- Start your portfolio – Practice HTML and CSS being creating small simple websites. Try to sell services to get even more practice. Volunteer if you have to.
- Always Learning - Learn JavaScript and create interactive content
- Always Learning - Learn JQuery – expand your knowledge of JavaScript and the DOM.
- Start Creating sites using BootStrap
- Build your portfolio and sell new services.
- Expand your templates and reusable code libraries to develop faster
- Always Learning - Learn backend code PHP and create your first PHP website
- Always Learning - MYSQL create a database driven website
- Build your portfolio and find new areas of focus for you web development career.